New York 1973

Having escaped to London from war torn Germany as a young boy, George passed a certain tube station with a fairy-tale name on his way to medical college each day, and fell in love with that name.

Elephant & Castle Prince Street opened in The Village NY in '73 across from St Vincent's Hospital where

George had worked as an oncologist since the 1950's. After two decades of short lunch-breaks where he could never get anything he wanted to eat, finally he retired to a life of eating everything he wanted to eat, in his own restaurant with a special name. His passion and obsession for quality was infectious and E&C became a New York classic within a few years. The popularity of the original E&C encouraged George to open several other hugely successful New York restaurants, notably Keens Steakhouse in Upper Midtown, which to this day, consistently ranks in The NY Times top 5 places to eat in the City.

Dublin 1989

On one of his many visits back to Europe, George made a random but inspirational visit to Ireland and found himself in an area in Dublin that reminded him of the location of the first E&C in Manhattan. Here he was in late 80's desolate Temple Bar with it's cobbled back streets, empty pubs and warehouses and no traffic. Perfect! Our doors opened in January 1989 and by Summer of that year the queues had already started for our fantastic food and spectacular atmosphere! Outside the world has greatly changed, but inside our swinging doors we try to keep things just the way they are.

Christmas 2021

This year we are looking forward to spending a very special Christmas with all our fantastic staff and customers. Coming out of one of the most challenging periods of hospitality history, Elephant & Castle has not only survived but has grown and thrived, and in all of our many restaurants we intend to celebrate a successful end to the year in style. So to all our friends who may have missed us over a couple of crazy years, let us book you in for the party so you won't miss us again!
